FAQs

What subjects are covered in the comprehensive 3-day live course?

The live course covers every subject of internal medicine from basics to complicated scenarios. Differential diagnosis and management is discussed in a stepwise approach. Course binders are provided, which you can revise later for your exam. The sessions are very interactive. Hundreds of MCQs with explanations of each choice are discussed and numerous clinical and radiological images reviewed. We provide all the updated and essential information you need to pass your exam.

Why is iMedicine Review my best choice?

- Over the past ten years, nearly 100% of participants have passed the ABIM Internal Medicine Board Exam.
- The course is available at an unbeatable tuition fee.
- The review is held in various cities in 2016. You can pick any of the sites for participation, or choose more than one site if your schedule doesn't allow you to attend all of the days at one site (based on seating availability).

Does iMedicine Review offer anything besides the 3-day live course?

Yes. In addition to our comprehensive live course, we offer the iMedicine Review Course App, excerpted from the live course, and the iMedicine Review Q&A1500™—more than 1,500 questions and answers for ongoing study and review. Both products are available online or as apps for your devices, and the online versions come free with your paid course registration. They're available for purchase on our website (see the inside left panel of this brochure)—and are a great way to see if our comprehensive live course might be right for you.

Why should I take the live course if I can study online or on my device with the iMR Course App or Q&A1500?

The live course offers much more than either of these supplementary products. Hundreds of additional questions, exercises, mix & match questions, and images are discussed. Plus, there's the value of studying interactively with other doctors. The live course is intense and high yield. It is very unlikely that you would pass your ABIM exam by using the iMedicine Review Course App or Q&A1500™ alone.
